Dear Friends,

After a remarkably successful first edition, LA CoMotion is again coming to the vibrant streets of Downtown Los Angeles November 15-18, 2018.

Los Angeles is resolutely focused on the future — and a big part of that future has to do with establishing our position as the transportation technology capital of the world. An extraordinary decade is before us: over the next ten years, Los Angeles is putting in place North America's most ambitious public transportation infrastructure program. Measure M is allocating $120 billion towards improving the transportation system and efforts like Vision Zero, Metro expansion, and preparing for the 2028 Olympic and Paralympic Games are already moving forward. LA CoMotion, now one of the global leaders in showcasing the brave new world of urban mobility, shares our city's goal of being the global leader of transportation technology.

LA CoMotion will help bring the mobility world's most important thought-leaders, stakeholders, and visionaries to our great and vibrant city. The ideas, the products and the visions they carry with them can help our city shape a more mobile, sustainable and innovative future.

I look forward to hosting LA CoMotion in November 2018.

Sincerely,
